We Like Cows

Writer and illustrator: Hamid Borzooey

This is a cow. Do you like cows?

This cow is a mother. Do you like your mother?

We like cows. Cows are our friends.

Do you like your friends?

Cows have milk because they are mothers
The baby of a cow is called a calf.
Cows give milk to their calves. Do you like milk?
We make yogurt, cheese and ice-cream from milk. Do you like ice-cream?

Cows have families. Do you like your family?
Calves like to live with their mothers.
Calves like to drink milk from their mother's breast. Do you like calves?

Cows are our friends.

We make bags, shoes, belts, clothes and leather gloves from the skin of cows for ourselves
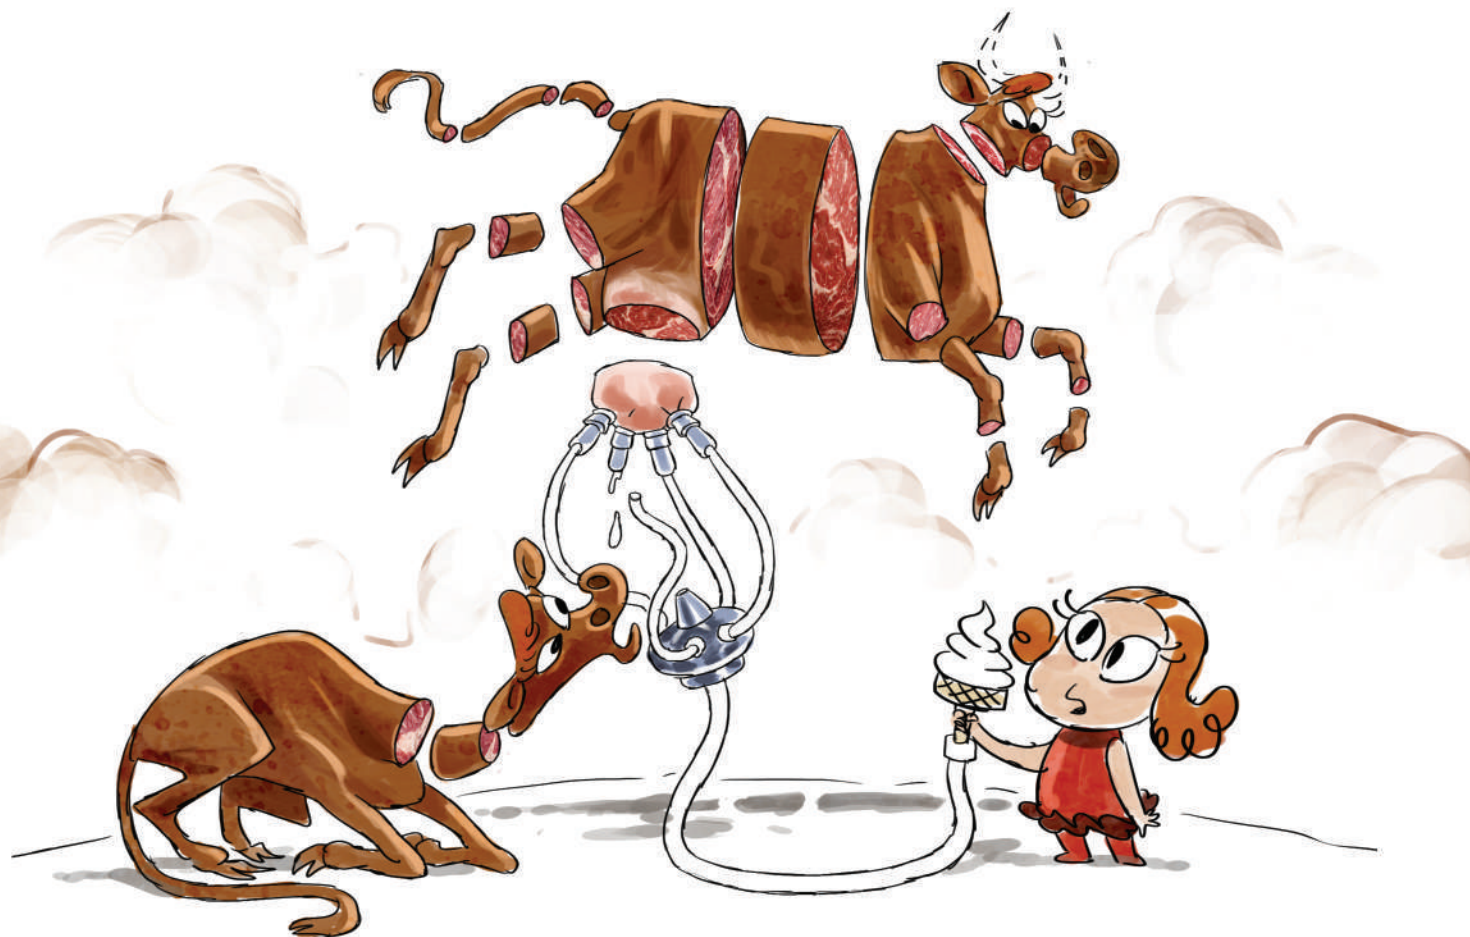

Do you like leather gloves?

Cows like their lives. Do you like your life?

We make steaks, hotdogs and hamburgers from the meat of the cows.

Do you like hamburgers?

We make hamburgers from the meat of the cows. Do you like cows?

Cows are mothers. Do you like ice-cream?

Calves like milk. Do you like calves?

Do you like calves or ice-cream more?

Do you like cows or hamburgers more?

Do you like cows or leather gloves more?

Cows like freedom. Do you like freedom?

About the writer:

I am Hamid Borzooey, an Iranian animator who has worked on several animation series since 2001.

I became vegetarian in 2011. When I became vegan in 2019, I realized there was a clear similarity between animal abuse and other forms of oppression related to social status, harrassment of women and children, racism, hunger, war and global warming! The root of all these is bullying. Bullying of animals, minorities, women, children, laborors, other nations and nature.

I am trying to explain these issues to children in a simple way through my books. Since my audience is children and children do not have any money; and since I can not pass that money on to animals, injured people or nature anyway; and since actually making money causes abuse itself, I do not sell my books. Please do not buy or sell this book. Feel free to share it, post it on social media, or even print it and present it to others for free.